CHAMBERLAIN RAISES ISSUES

Foreshadows Contest Between Free Trade and Protection.

A MODIFIED FREE TRADER

In Order to Preserve the Great Empire. Trade of the Colonies Should be Secured.

London, May 15 .- Addressing his constituents at Birmingham tonight Col. Secy. Chamberlain made a speech which seems to foreshadow the direct raising of the question of free trade versus protection at the next general election.

Mr. Chamberlain's unusual reticence and his absence from parliament and the political arena since he returned from South Africa have been the occasion of much comment as has also the fact that he took no part in the heated discussions caused by Mr. Ritchie's budget and the remission of the grain

In tonight's pronouncement will probably be found an explanation of this; it at least shows a variance of opinion with Premier Balfour's speech today on he abolition of the grain duty. For him Mr. Chamberlain said local questions were comparatively unimpor-tant beside the great imperialist policy which the fate of the empire depended, namely "Whether we stand together, one free nation against all the world, or whether we shall fall into separate states selfishly seeking their own in terests and losing the advantages that unity alone can give."

In a passing reference to home rule Mr. Chamberiain said that if separation began at home rule the empire would dissolve into its component atoms, but if he could believe the opposition party frankly had abandoned home rule he would be the first to sing "Nunc Dim-

The colonial secretary proceeded trongly to urge the necessity, in order to preserve the great empire, that the trade of the colonies should be secured. Canada had offered exceptional advan-Canada had offered exceptional advantages, he said, which Great Britain did not dare accept because of the interpretation of the doctrine of free trade, the policy of dictation and interference by foreign powers. Mr. Chamberlain said he was justified in the belief that Great Britain was so wedded to its fiscal system that it could not defend its colonics. This was a position not intended by the pioneers of free trade who, if they were alive today, would agree to a treaty of preference and rewho, if they were anye today, would agree to a treaty of preference and reciprocity with the empire's children.

The speaker said he believe that an entirely wrong interpretation had been placed upon the doctrine of free trade, but that the country ought to be bound by this and it should not hesitate to by this, and it should not hesitate to resort to retaliation if necessary wher-ever the interests between the colonies and the home country were threatened, Mr. Chamberlain avowed himself a free trader, but he objected to the artificial and narrow interpretation of free trade. He pointed out that Cobden had made, and that Bright had opposed a preferential treaty with France, and first, to maintain the free trade policy in all its severity, although it is repudiated by every other nation and your colonies; second, to insist that we be not bound by a purely technical definition of free trade. While we seek the one chief object, the free interchange of commerce between ourselves and the nations of the world, we will nevertheless recover our freedom. sume the power of negotiating, and, if ecessary, of retaliation."

In conclusion, the colonial secretary said he desired that the discussion of this subject should be open. It was an issue graver in its consequences than mere local disputes. A mistake in leg-islation could be corrected, he said; but a mistake in the imperial policy was in retrievable. Personally, he did not this a general election very near, but whether near or distant, the issue would depend on whether the people have it in their hearts to do all that is necessary, even if it occa-sionally went against their prejudices. to consolidate an empire which could only be retained by relations of interests as well as by relations of sentiment.

There is an aching and tired feeling; the liver, bowels, and kidneys becomes sluggish and inactive, the digestion impaired, with little or no appetite, no ambition for anything, and a feeling that the whole body and mind needs toning up. The trouble is, that during winter there has been an accumulation of waste matter in the system. Herbine will remove it, secure to the secretions a right exit, and by its tonic effect, fully restore the wasted tissues and give strength in place of weakness. We at Z. C. M. I. Drug Department.
